It is very difficult to write about anything less than the best. Specially because you are handling non-functional issues with a much high rate. I really appreciate the time and effort you put in your blog. I would be happier writing with you than to read something written by anyone else. It's fine, if you don't have time to improve it. I'm just satisfied with the outcome. Thank you for commenting. I read every single comment, and if you have any suggestions or any more requests on improving your experience on JS Builder, please let me know. I try

Q: Rails - How to show the number of files in uploader I want to show the number of files uploaded, but could not find any methods to do it. I tried following: But this returns an empty result. I want it so that as the user uploads files, the number of files uploaded increases, which is also shown on the view page. A: Since you are using paperclip gem you can use:

Q: Declare a type variable for another type variable in another type class in System F I'm trying to code a type class for eliminating the order of evaluation for the type: `data Foo x y = Foo x y | Foo y x | Foo x y y` class OrderClasses where type `OrderMonad m = m -> m -> m` instance `OrderMonad Foo` where `Foo x y1 y2 = y1 >>= y2` But it says that the type variable m is not defined. Is there anyway to do what I'm trying to do? If it helps, I would be using GHC 7.4.2 or 7.6.1. A: I think the problem is that the declaration of your type class requires that type variables will be parametrized with certain types, and at the same time you want those parameters to be polymorphic, but this is not allowed in Haskell98 because of no type inference. Your approach is possible in Haskell98, and I have successfully used it in the past, but this pattern is not called out very well in Haskell98, so it may go unnoticed in the wild. And since it is not well documented you may have to do some hacky search and replace work to your own project. If you were to take the approach I outlined below, please b7e8fdf5c8
